The application of ear drops inside the ear will not affect the fast as long as the ear drum is not perforated. If the ear drum is perforated a person should wait until it has fully healed and have it checked that it is fully healed by a medical expert before application of ear drops. This normally takes a few weeks without complications. Sometimes it may become infected in which case a person would need to wait longer for it to heal before they use ear drops. Ear drops should also not be used as part of the treatment to heal the perforated ear drum whilst fasting.
