*Subject to sighting of the new moon

The month of Rajab is the Seventh month in the Islamic calendar.

MOON INFORMATION: The New Moon (Birth) was on 14 July 2007 at 13h : 04m (BST). We had attempted to see the Moon on the evening of 15th. The conditions were mainly overcast throughout the UK but we have no confirmed sightings in the UK. We have however confirmed sightings in South Africa, as this is to the east of UK, We have therefore accepted this as our basis for commencing the month of Rajab on Mon 16th July. The Moon was also sighted in other countries of Europe.

Based on the Saudi System they have yet again announced the beginning of the month incorrectly. The moon was just over 4 hours old at the time of Sunset in Saudi Arabia on 14th July. This is the earliest announcement so far this year. This coincides with the Umm-al-Qura Calendar but negates all possibilities of seeing it with the naked eye as prescribed in the Hadith of our beloved Nabi ﷺ. There was no possibility of sighting the Moon anywhere in the World on 14th July.
